

Johanna - the voice of siteless - and Tom - multi instrumentalist and producer - are creating music together since 2009. Their music ranges from experimental sounds to acoustic driven guitar strains combined with (self-) ironically daily routine observations and fragile desires. The duo is using a loop station for live performances, a device for multi-layer live recordings and playbacks. In 2010, they reached the national finals of the BOSS Loop Station World Championship and came third. Their first album "collage" was released in 2011 followed by their second album "oktaskop" in 2015.